Free Food Give-Away from Cornell Cooperative Extension

Please remember, every Saturday through October, a free box of food is available at the Ripley Public Library. This is not the same as the Food Express which is available on a monthly basis. This is a separate program and is available due to our community being in a "Food Desert". These programs are a wonderful thing and is a boon not only to our community, but also the local farmers who participate with these programs. The farmers receive revenue from the State for their products, Cornell Cooperative Ext. organizes the delivery and we get to benefit from this. Programs such as this help keep our economy and our bodies strong. The more you participate, the more people will benefit. This is not a charity, this is fulfilling a need in our community. Let's keep the cycle moving.

CCIDA Receives $1 Million For Ripley Shovel-Ready Site

SEPTEMBER 27, 2024 BY WRFA RADIOLEAVE A COMMENT

The Chautauqua County Industrial Development Agency's interstate shovel ready site project in Ripley is receiving $1 million.

U.S. Senate Majority Leader Chuck Schumer announced the funding that will go toward extending electrical service to prepare a 147-acre site for future employers. The funding is through the Appalachian Regional Commission.

The project is expected to spur economic growth in Western New York by supporting IDA efforts to improve infrastructure, especially extending a 34.5 kv electric service to the site, providing necessary power to attract more employers looking to expand or move to the area. This improved site readiness will especially help meet an increased demand from manufacturing, transportation, and warehousing industries to grow in the region.

FROM the DESK of the RIPLEY TOWN HISTORIAN

by Doc Hamels

This fall season is a great time to get out and to take a nice autumn walk through town! Recently I walked along Route 20 both east and west. I discovered some hidden gems. Rather than invading folks' privacy by taking photos and posting them, I recommend looking at things for yourself.

What am I talking about??! Well, walk and look up. Look at the roof lines, the tops of doorways and windows and look at columns on houses. I was very surprised to see some beautiful carved decorative pieces on Ripley homes as well as metal decorative panels. Many of the homes in our community are well over 150 years old and still maintain the style, grace and beauty from yesteryears!!!

The craftsmanship and skill to make these homes stylish is outstanding. Also look at the peaks of the rooves for other little surprises. We have so much rich history in not only our ancestors but the buildings that they left for us to enjoy! Don't just look along Route 20 but there are other surprises on the side streets! Happy hunting!!!

"All the news that's fit to print"

That's been the motto on the masthead of the New York Times since 1897. And while we, at The Bookworm and About Town, certainly can't compete with any city newspapers, we try to bring you interesting and current events happening in our neck of the woods.

That said, being a monthly publication, we can't hope to bring you up-to-date information, but we can steer you in the right direction to read pertinent items either on-line or in our local newspapers.

The September 26, 2024 issue of The Westfield Republican had a front page article on cemetery work, specifically the East Ripley Cemetery. Cindy Bird of Fredonia took on the project to organize the information regarding the cemetery, including spreadsheets, hard copies and monument maps.

In years past Virginia Barden and Marie McCutcheon tackled all the local Ripley cemeteries and their work is kept at the Ripley Library in the historical section. They mapped out burial sites in East Ripley and South Ripley cemeteries, as well as others. The work Bird did would be a wonderful addition to that initial task.

If you'd like to read the article, titled "Ripley Hears Update on Cemetery Work" the newspaper will be available at the library for a limited time.

* * *

This month several people reached out to The Bookworm with information they thought the community would like to know. Thank you SO much! Occasionally we get letters or comments about the newsletters, saying how much people enjoy them. That means a lot to the staff. We try to bring you information and fun each month, and your participation makes it all the better!

If you have suggestions about content or format, please let us know.

A retrospective on our town...*

From NE (North East) Directory, 1998
Town of Ripley, Chautauqua County, New York

Our history begins around 1804 when, it is generally regarded, Alexander Cochrane from Ireland was the first settler in the area. Ripley was established as a town on March 1, 1816, with elections being held shortly thereafter.

Prior to the opening of the Erie Canal in 1825, access to the area was quite limited, with exchange of surplus western goods for eastern merchandise being difficult at best. After the canal's opening, traffic through the township increased substantially.

On Nov. 4, 1841, Benjamin Franklin Goodrich was born in a house on the western edge of town. He is said to have left the area after having been orphaned at the age of eight or nine and eventually went on to establish the first rubber factory in the U.S., which bears his name to this day.

While grapes had been introduced to the area earlier (1818 in the Town of Portland), it was not until 1869 that H.A. Burton, a Portlander recently located in Ripley, made the first commercial scale planting here. Jedediah Johnson planted the first Concords and by 1907 total acreage in the township had reached almost 5700 acres. Sharp price decreases during the 1930s led to the abandonment of much of this acreage and total acreage fell to the current level (1998) of approximately 1700 acres.

(Editor's Note: Does anyone know the number of acres currently planted with grapes?)

By 1873, the main village relinquished its designation of "Quincy" and came to be known simply as Ripley. In 1880 a destructive fire resulted in the loss of six business buildings which were replaced by the brick Randall Block. History was to repeat itself nearly 84 years later in 1965 when fire again razed this same block.

Subsequent to the death of Mrs. Hamilton (owner of the Hamilton Estate) in 1944, the estate, valued at approximately $750,000, was left for the aid and comfort of dumb animals, one of the most unusual wills ever filed in Chautauqua County.

November 1956 was memorable for the Thanksgiving Day Snow Storm which deposited more than 30 inches of snow on the area and marked the first use of the local school facilities to serve the needs of travelers who found themselves victims of the weather – a scene which would be repeated numerous times in future years.
